ST. PATRICK'S DAY AND THE IRISH.

The celebration of the anniversary of Robert Emmet's birth has bardly subsided when Irishmen are called upon to do honer to their patron saint. Hibern'ana differ as to the birth and early history of St. Patrick, some claiming he was born in Scotland, others in Italy, but, be that as it may, his life's labora were given to Ireland and its people rightfully claim him as their own, alhough he was in reality the world's missionary. So well was his mission accomplished in Ireland that even under years of oppression and misrule, where other coun-tries have allowed infidelity and disbelief to creep in, she has never wavered in religious real. She has always stood firm in the faith. Her allegiance to God has ever been first and foremost Mr. Roosevelt must have held it a land after his own heart so far as race suicide is concerned for statistics abow no such falling off in the birth rate as in other countries. This fact may be due to the influence of the church of Rome who has always upheld high the standard of home ideals.

A gentleman whose parents were born n Ireland but who had emigrated to America early in life was asked how he could possibly be a patriotic American and yet love Ireland so. His reply was "Just the same as you can love your mother and your wife at the same time."

mother and your wife at the same time."
We are all more or less familiar with the folk-lers of Germany. Irish literature is rich with her folk-lere tales which have been so interestingly told by that distinguished author and sciential, William Curtis. William Curtis.

A native of Erin was once asked why here are no scakes in his land, and Ouce upon a time, in the days of good old S. Patrick, Erin was fairly over cun with enakes and frigs, and St. Patrick himself was puzzled as to what means to employ to get rid of them. Finally he issued an edict that on a cer-tain day all the anakes and frogs should congregate upon a certain hill. This they did, and no sooner had they met t an they commenced to fight until the rates had completely demolished the frogs whereupon the stakes fell to fight-iog one snother till not one was left.

them and with his own band sprinkled the ashes all over the land, since which which time not a snake has ever been staged in America is the production of a son of Erin-Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Joseph Jefferson as "Bib Acres" drew rowded houses wherever and as long as ne played it. Sheridan besides being a playwright was the owner of several theares. It is told of him that upon one occasion when a play-house owned by him caught fire, he hurried to the scene to find the entire building in fiames which meant great less to him finan cially. After watching the fire a few moments, he went with a friend to a coffee house just opposite and ordered some refreshment. S me one passing remarked it was well be could enjoy himself under such circumstances. Said he, "Tie a pity if a man cannot enjoy nimself sitting by his own fireside."

When the interior decorat ons of the Congressional Library were being planned and the names of the poets to be enrolled there were being considered, some one suggested Tom Moore, One issenting voice arose, the voice of an acknowledged authority in such matters who claimed that Moore is not a poet but a ballad writer, so Erio's sweet singer is conspicuous by his absence. His admirers are just as many and just as warm, and if, as his distinguished criterion has proclaimed, he be no poet, he was at hast an inspiration to one when his friend Lord Byron dedicated Ere me fainting spirit fell, 'Iis to thee that I would drink.

With that water, as this wine
The libation I would pour
Should be—Peace thine and mine
And a health to thee, Toin Moore.

EFFECT OF ALCOHOL.

That the body of an insbriate is a aboratory where all sorts of germ poison are being manufactured all the time was Branch Sample Shoe Store the statement made yesterday by Dr. G. H.
